WIN A FALCONRY EXPERIENCE

SUPPORT ON OFF OR HSBC WORK

By Matthew Stanton

POLITICIANS and support groups will step in to help the 750 bank workers made redundant by HSBC at Southend.

Staff at the cards and collections departments at Chartwell House, in Chartwell Square, were told on Tuesday that their jobs were being transferred to Birmingham from next year.

The announcement sparked fury among both workers and civic leaders.

Rochford and Southend East MP, James Duddridge, Castle Point MP Bob Spink, Southend West MP David Amess, and Rayleigh MP Mark Francois vowed to do all they can to represent those constituents left jobless

I will help in any way that I can."

Bob Spink promised to write to HSBC bosses on Monday calling for a meeting.

He said: "Those affected can get in contact with me. I will be seeking a meeting to see if alternative plans can be made."

Meanwhile, the Federation of Smaller Businesses (FSB) is already in talks with Business Link and Southend Council about those affected, including nearby businesses

Keith Brown, spokesman for the FSB, said: We are concerned about the impact of HSBC's decision, not only for the workers but all the businesses in the area that rely on their custom. We need to work together to minimise that impact wishing to start their own businesses.

Lord Hanningfield, leader of Essex County Council, said: "We have a range of schemes and initiatives in place to help those that have been made redundant including a specific scheme for those over 50 who find themselves in this difficult position.

"It also has a range of practical support to help small businesses at this time and I would urge anyone affected to have a look at the support that is available from the county council and other organisations.

To get in contact with any of your MP, call 0207 219 3000, or visit www.essexcc.gov.uk for support schemes at Essex County Council.

750 jobs to go at HSBC Councillors'

MORE than 750 bank workers will lose their jobs after HSBC announced it was closing its Southend office.

The firm's cards and collections departments, at Chartwell House, in Chartwell Square, were told by bosses that their jobs were being transferred to Birmingham from next year.

HSBC made the announcement that 600 full-time and 150 part-time workers will get the push in the town's Odeon Cinema last Tuesday.

The site itself will close in 2011 two years before the expiry of its lease in 2013.

Tim Pie, spokesman for HSBC, stressed the cuts were part of branch network management and from the consolidating of the company's collections and cards operations.

He said: "We have six offices around the country where we carry out card operations and three main offices where we do collections work.

"It makes good business sense to bring them together into centres of excellence, where teams can better share best practice, use the same systems and processes and ensure a consistent customer experience.
"The centres of excellence will be based in Birmingham."

The axes also include 200 HSBC staff in Southampton, 110 in Sheffield, almost 100 in Manchester and 30 in Leicester.

A further 300 will also go but locations have not been confirmed – this brings the number of people losing their jobs to 1,700.

Rob MacGregor, national officer at trade union, Unite, slammed HSBC for the timing of the announcement. He said: "The timing of the cuts were cynical.

"HSBC has known about the cuts for a long time but decided to make the announcement when other national banks confirmed cuts. It was a good day to bury bad news.

"I am disappointed with HSBC as they are currently one of the most profitable businesses in the world.

"They have had no tax bail out and in the first six months of this year, they announced pre-tax profits of £3billion.

"The company is not struggling. There is no justification for the cuts, none whatsoever."

· A HSBC worker suffered a panic attack while receiving the news at the Odeon. He was cared for by ambulance staff and has since recovered.

'shock' at the job cuts

■ Essex County Council leader, Lord Hanningfield, said: "This is a severe blow both to Southend and the whole of south of the county. "This announcement will also

"This announcement will also have a knock-on impact on many small businesses in the area that were dependent on HSBC itself but also on passing trade from those that worked there."

Councillor Graham Longley (Lib Dem, Blenheim Park), opposition party leader in Southend, said: "I am tremendously disapnointed

"It is sad when any jobs go, but 750 is a huge dent in the town's economic development."

Councillor Terry Cutmore (Con, Ashingdon and Canewdon), leader of Rochford District Council, said: "I think it is very unfortunate that HSBC have acted like this and I know people personally who will we are footing to create work over the next few years and we need to push schemes through, like Southend Airport. "Anyone who needs help should get in contact with our council offices, especially if they are enti-tled to benefits." tled to benefits."

tled to benefits."

Councillor Chris Black (Lib Dem, Downhall and Rawreth), opposition party leader in Rochford, said: "A lot of people in the Rayleigh area work in the financial industry, so this is a very worrying sign.

"I am sure many people from the Rochford district worked in those Councillor Dave Blackwell (CIIP, Canvey Central), opposition party leader in Castle Point, said: "I think it is disastrous for the area and the economy.

"The annoying thing is the fact that Government pump billions of pounds into banks to keep them going and banks pay higher man-agement thousands, but these peo-ple's jobs could not be saved."

MPs call for more help for redundant workers would lose their jobs – many of whom live in south east Essex – has come as a shock to Southend and the surrounding areas.

Southend East and Rochford MP, James Duddridge, was 'horrified' when he heard the news that HSBC was axeing hundreds of his constituents

He fears businesses in the Victoria Plaza will now suffer from a loss of trade due to a 'huge cut' in the borough's economy.

Mr Duddridge said: "Those losing their jobs will suffer greatly, especially with the news coming just before Čhristmas.

"We need to put all our efforts together to bring employment into Southend, especially with Southend Airport.

"Smaller businesses around the Plaza were doing well, but this will make times much tougher than they already are."

Southend West MP. David Amess.

said: "This is very grim news, just before Christmas – it is not what we would call Christmas cheer.

"I feel very, very sad for those who will be losing their jobs. I am sure the scale of the cuts was not expected."

Mark Francois, MP for Rayleigh, wants Government agency, JobCentre Plus, to provide help and assistance to the workers.

He said: "This is very saddening news indeed and illustrates the point that unfortunately, unlike many other world economies, Britain is still in recession."

And Castle Point MP, Bob Spink, said: "Many of my constituents work for HSBC and they will be deeply distressed. Hopefully, we will see a sound recovery and more jobs created REMEMBER getting my first mobile phone about 10 years ago and thinking the whole idea was a bit silly.

I was either at work or at home so could use the phones there. I wouldn't want to ring someone when I was driving and if I needed to call when I was out, I could stick some money in a phonebox.

My first phone was not much smaller than the Rover Metro I was driving at the time a tight squeeze for someone 6ft 6ins tall and I still didn't really see the point. But now, I must admit I do feel naked without

It's not the be all and end all of my life though, so I find it a bit odd that to some people it is. Like when you see those guys who constantly have Bluetooth headsets plugged into their ears, even when they're in the supermarket.

But what really took the biscuit I over-heard last week. I had little choice because, without being too graphic, I was sat in a cubicle in the gents.

It was a little unsettling when the chap next door began talking and it soon became apparent that it was a relatively important business call that he'd initiated.

As the conversation went on, I began to feel for the person on the other end of the line. Did they know the only time this guy could spare them was when he was sat on the throne?

And then I was stuck. I was ready to leave, but I didn't want to give the game away to the fella on the phone by flushing the loo. So I stood there for a good five minutes waiting for this guy to finish up his business - in more ways than one.

He summed it up himself as we stood side-by-side washing our hands. 'Nowhere's sacred any more, is it?'

Teen driver jailed for second of madness'

By Karen Davis

A TEENAGER whose actions led to the death of a 14 year-old girl and devastated a community was jailed for six years last week at Basildon Crown Court.

Ben Gemmell sobbed as he was taken down to begin his sentence the day before his 18th birthday.

The packed courtroom heard that in March of this year, Gemmell ploughed his red Citroen C1 into a group of friends, who were meeting after an evening out, in Tyrone Road, Thorpe Bay, having passed his test only three weeks before. The 47mph impact killed 14 year-old Eleanor McGrath, of Shoebury, left 16-year-old Jack Horton, of Barling, in a coma from which he may never recover, and injured eight

In sentencing Gemmell, Judge Christopher Mitchell said that had the teenager's driving examiner seen how he behaved that night, he would have been 'horrified' and certainly would never have passed him. Judge Mitchell said: "Your actions were like a large stone being thrown into a calm pool – the ripples have gone out and out and out."

Prosecutor Andrew Jackson said

Gemmell drove at the group of about 30 teenagers in a bid to 'show off' and frighten them.

Tragically, he lost control of the car while trying to avoid a parked vehi-cle, hit a kerb and smashed into the group of 14 to 17-year-olds.

Witnesses reported bodies 'flying through the air' and the scene resembling 'something out of a horror movie'.

Gemmell, of Wyatts Drive, Thorpe Bay, admitted to causing death by dangerous driving and eight counts of grievous bodily harm.

He has also been banned from driving for 10 years.

families unit

THE TWO families who have lost so much following the Tyrone Road tragedy comforted each other outside the courthouse.

For Jane and Andrew Horton, it was the first time they had left their son Jack's side since he suffered the severe brain injury that has left him in a permanent vegetative state.

In a joint statement with the McGrath family, they said: "We recognise that today symbolises the end and start of many chapters from what can only be described as an horrific collison.

"For many of us, the story does not conclude here. We will continue to try and rebuild our lives by overcoming the physical and psychological scars left by the actions carried out by Ben Gemmel that day in March."

Maren.
Eleanor McGrath's parents Gillian and John said: "No sentence will ever make up for the loss of Eleanor Grace and for the lasting damage caused to so many families."
"Words cannot express the pain

It was revealed in court that the Gemmell family had written letters to the families of the victims and they expressed 'their sincere regret at the pain and suffering caused'. The police described the tragedy as unique both in its scale and the lasting effect it had on all concerned.

A police statement said: "Our thoughts remain with Ben Gemmell and his family, just as they do with Eleanor and Jack's."

BILLERICAY HORNDON ON

Special report

BEN Gemmell's 'second of madness' had repercussions that affected an entire community.

Almost 50 family members of the injured attended the sentencing, some of the victims in wheelchairs and on crutches, their distress audible as the events were recalled.

Prosecuting, Andrew Jackson told the court that many of the victims had been severely affected both physically and mentally by the tragic event.

Several of them have been prevented from following promising sports careers and 'many bright futures have been left in tatters'

Among the injured were: Ellen Finn, 15, from Maldon, who suffered severe pelvic and knee injuries; Brandon Taylor, who was left with facial scarring that may require surgery; Joseph Horn, who suffered two broken legs; Poppy Lee, who suffered leg and head injuries; Patrick Clear, who had shoulder and scalp injuries; and Georgina Clark, who suffered a broken leg.

The police and the judge praised the actions of all of the teenagers involved in the 'carnage' who helped their friends and remained calm - even administering CPR.

The police officer who led the investigation of the crash said Gemmell's 'stupid actions' had left those behind struggling to cope with the aftermath.

But he also told how the night of tragedy had Gemmell's life too.

Speaking outside the court, Chief Inspector Tom Diament: "Ben Gemmel's start to adulthood has been ruined. He has to live with the fact that he took a life and maimed several others."

Government planners promise change - but over 50 years, not 20

By Karen Davis

GOVERNMENT planners have vowed to achieve growth, regeneration, carbon savings and job creation for Essex and east London in the wake of the ongoing downturn. But delegates from councils, businesses and regeneration agencies visiting the Thames Gateway Forum at the O2 Arena were told the programme had been extended from 20 years to 50.

The event was noticeably lower key than in previous years – probably in deference to the current economic situation - and there was an emphasis on environmental issues

The Environment Agency believes that successful regeneration can only happen if it is underpinned with an environ-ment able to sustain these demands.

Dave Wardle, the agency's Thames Estuary Programme Executive, said: "Our standards set out what we think regeneration can deliver for the environment and what the environment can deliver for regeneration."

Natural England is the independent Government's advisor on the natural environment, and announced a new partnership with major developers involved in the Thames

Gateway project.
Poul Christensen, chair of Natural England, expressed his belief that a green infrastructure is critical for urban areas.

He said: "The green infra-structure includes green spaces, street trees, green roofs and open parks, which in the past have been seen as purely decorative. The reality is that they transform urban life."

"Green areas reduce noise and flood levels and can filter out as much as 95 per cent of

"It also makes good business sense as it is estimated that a green infrastructure would add £2.6billion to the project.

Representatives from local regeneration projects such as Southend Renaissance, and Basildon Renaissance remained optimistic that their plans for the development of the Thames Gateway would come to fruition despite the economic downturn.

SOME go the extra mile for charity - Stuart Whiffen went 52 of them to raise money for Little Havens Children's Hospice.

The 36-year-old set himself a huge personal challenge of a same day double marathon, which he completed on Stuart, who is a club promoter and keen runner, ran 26.2-miles from his home in Grays a finishing point Southend town centre - then immediately hopped on a bike and cycled home.

He was inspired to carry out the feat by comedian Eddie Izzard, who recently ran 43 marathons in 51 days for Sport

Stuart said: "After a conversation I had with a friend, Donna, whose daughter Meg stays at Little Havens Children's Hospice, and hearing about all of the brilliant things they do there for the children, I decided to raise as much money for them as I possibly could.

"I contacted Little Havens and was invited for a tour of the hospice which was, to say the least, an hour of mixed emotions.

"It's a wonderful place that is so vital for families with sick children and as a father of two young girls myself, it really brought home how important a place like Little Havens is for place like Little Havens is for all of the family."

Amazingly, Stuart allowed himself just eight weeks of training leading up to the event, However, he ran the first marathon in 4 hours 20 minutes and completed the 26.2-mile cycle home in 2 hours 20

Stuart was also able to raise more than £1,400 for Little Havens in the process.

He added: "They rely so heavily on fundraising to keep the hospice running and every time I found myself struggling with the training, and eventually the marathons themselves, I focused on exactly why I was doing it."

Police have been working closely with local volunteers and agencies, but would now like to see the running of the club handed back to the community to ensure it continues to thrive.

Pc Neil Gale, neighbourhood specialist officer for Eastwood, said: "We regularly see 25 youths attending the group each week, but have had up to 40 in the past.

"The background work has already been done and new equipment has been put in place, we just need someone to come in and take

Business meeting

By Karen Davis

BUSINESS leaders from across Southend and South Essex are meeting at a special conference to celebrate successes and discuss challenges

Success-on-Sea Business Conference is taking place on Thursday, November 19 during Global Entrepreneurship Week, and will be held at South East Essex College building.

The conference is the first of its kind and is a support initiative run by Southend Council and Southend Business Partnership.

It aims to highlight the borough's successes, and build foundations for the borough's future.

The event runs from 10am to 2.30pm and will include speakers from the business community, on a local and regional level.

Deborah Cadman, chief executive of East of England Development Agency, will also be speaking, focus-ing particularly on the successes Southend is achieving regionally. There will also be exhibitors from local organisations and industry specialists such as the Federation of Small Businesses (FSB), London Southend Airport, Thames Gateway South Essex Partnership and more. Councillor John Lamb said: "In the Country's current economic state it is extremely important for us as a council to support local business and trade, and for the local businesses to join together, to support one another, and share ideas

Murray Foster, who chairs Southend Business Partnership said: "Over the last 12 months our Southend Business Partnership has been re-booted and re-launched.

"This annual conference is another first, linking into Global Entrepreneurship Week 2009 which is most timely as it gives us an opportunity to recognise our local achievements and the opportunities and challenges arising from the current economic climate.

Although the Success-on-Sea Business conference is free, booking is required. To request a booking

THE PROBLEM

Call to restrict HGVs overtaking on the A12

By Pat Jones

SLOW overtaking lorries that block both lanes on the A12 could cost lives and should be banned, local businesses claim.

The vehicles cause congestion on the trunk road, even delaying ambulances on the way to accidents.

The claims have been made by the Federation Small Businesses (FSB), which is campaigning to keep HGVs out of the outside lane between 6am and 8pm.

The FSB and the A12 Alliance - created to improve conditions on the road - have both asked the Highways Agency to introduce the Essex FSB chairman, Wicks, Iain said: lorries "Many are restricted to 50 miles an hour and one such vehicle overtaking another causes a jam and potential accidents as motorists doing 70mph have to hit the brakes suddenly "Congestion can tail back for miles while lorries overtake.

A spokeswoman for the Highways Agency said: "We are working improvements for the A12 alongside our partners, including looking into the feasibility of an HGV overtaking restriction and to identify where these might be used.

A simple solution

By Karen Davis

A DESPERATE breast cancer patient who was unable to get her supply of life-saving drugs encouraged an NHS worker to devise a solution that has been taken up nationally.

The patient had tried unsuccessfully to get the hormone letrozole (marketed by Novartis Pharmaceuticals as Femara) at five different pharmacies and was threatening to stop the treat-

It now supplies a book of tear-off slips, which all Femara patients can hand to their pharmacist if nec-

"It was a very simple solution which needed just a couple of phone calls."

HOT STUFF: Elaine Johnson at the Salvation Army Temple, Hadleigh.
Picture by Mark Clevelan

Elaine's sermons are real hot stuff

By Matthew Stanton

A FIRE-EATING mother could well be the coolest preacher in Elaine Johnson, of Constitution Hill, Benfleet, used her unusual skill to help youngsters remember a sermon she held at the Salvation Army Temple, in London Road, Hadleigh, called 'Light and Sparkle'.

The 47-year-old mother-of-three was introduced to fire eating 25 years ago while friends with a circus performer at a London college.

The former Fryerns School pupil, who works as an Development Employment Officer at the Hadleigh Temple, said: "I demonstrated fire-eating to add fun to my church service.
"Fire-eating helps attract a crowd, it always will.

"It is certainly a good way of helping people remember a sermon."

Airport plans need official report

IS the very poor response to the consultation on Southend Airport Expansion the result of residents' disinterest, or something worse?

something worse?
When I asked one of the 99 people out of 100 who did not reply, the lady said, 'I didn't bother because I thought Stobart and the council will do what they want anyway.'

I was very sorry to hear that. With all the conflicting evidence and assurances one way and the other, isn't it time we asked the government to produce an unbiased report on the effects of airport expansion, and an independent referendum?

Councillor Ric Morgan, Hobleythick Lane, Westcliff

Just listen to the majority view

WITH regard to the airport's planning application, I am still not convinced that the local councils will take into account the views of the local people.

Whilst I certainly do not oppose job creation within our local area, I do feel that the impact the airport expansion might have on our health, safety, homes and roads is equally or more important to take account of when making the final decision.

I have made my objection to the proposed planning application and hope that enough residents are able to voice their views so that a public enquiry or consultation (which is actioned upon) can be carried out before the final decision is made

Whilst I can understand the airport is keen to have the runway approved to try to make the deadline of the Olympics in 2012, I feel it is more important to make sure that the local residents who will be living in the area for the next 25 years are happy with the application decision.

I am unhappy with the outcome of the JAAP consultation in terms of the way in which the results of this consultation seems to be being ignored by the council.

I feel that many residents within the Southend area spent a lot of time and effort letting the councils know their views and that the money invested in this consultation surely warrants some form of action rather than ignoring the results as they are not available in time for the decision on the airport planning application. I am aware (and frequently

I am aware (and frequently 'quoted') that the JAAP process was not a referendum.

However, I do feel that if a consultation elicits a majority view of more than 75 per cent objecting to the airport runway extension, this should prompt the councils to carry out some form of independent representative survey of the local resident's views before saying yes to the airport.

It is particularly important in those areas that will be directly impacted upon by the expansion to be made aware of all the issues and to feel as if their views are being listened to by the elected government.

Amanda Barnes Hall Park Avenue, Westcliff-on-Sea

Stobart can do what he wants

ON reading Mr Shanks's story (YA Letters, Nov 4), I get this picture of this naughty boy who screams and stamps his feet when he can't get his own way. It seems to me that he is one

It seems to me that he is one of the minority that object to Southend Airport.

I have one thing to say to Mr Shanks and others like him -Britain is a big island. If they don't like the idea of airplanes flying over their houses, then why don't they move?

All their protests will get them nowhere because Mr Stobart has the muscle to get what he wants.

Market needs new lease of life

YORK Road Market is a dear old lady of Southend, held warmly in the hearts of local people.

people.

Councillor Mooring's negative words at the recent Full Council meeting regarding this historic landmark were like nails in her coffin.

I was angry and saddened by his apparent lack of commitment in response to my passionate plea for the council to sustain York Road Market.

I have lived in Southend all my life and have fond memories of York Road Market.

I strongly feel that it should remain, and I would love to see it renovated and given a new lease of life.

Blair must never be EU President

REGARDING the danger of having Tony Blair as EU President. This man has wrecked Britain and now some idiots want to give him the opportunity to wreck Europe. This must never happen. Tony Blair should be serving a long prison sentence for the suffering he has caused to our world.

The British people should be informed of the very great danger of allowing him to darken our doors ever again.

Is it too late to make him President of Afghanistan?

He wouldn't need a large salary - thirty pieces of silver would do.

> J Lawley, Hornchurch

Lisbon Treaty lets us down

WHEN our politicians gave the nod to the passing of the Lisbon Treaty, some of them said they had never actually read it, but still shamefully yoted for it.

I have read enough to know that it justified our expectation that our elected representatives would do their duty and honour the right of the UK electorate to comment on it by referendum.

We all know who reneged so treacherously on their manifesto promise and it is too late to alter that.

On the evidence of periodic media polls, the move towards a United States of Europe is opposed by many voters, but if it means we will no longer be able to act independently on some matters of foreign affairs then it has its good points.

An end to the loss of young lives in ill-conceived attempts by this country to act as the 'world's policeman' and to solve other nations' problems single-handed, or even at all, if there are wiser heads in Europe to stop us doing so.

S Askham, Elmsleigh Drive, Leigh-on-Sea

Give Cluny Square more facilities

AS local ward councillor, I am urging the council to provide more amenities for youngsters in the Cluny Square area.

in the Cluny Square area.

I have used the outdoor fitness equipment that was installed in Priory Park earlier this year, and I feel it would be great to have this kind of facility in Cluny Square too.

It would provide a free and accessible way for young people to get together and keep fit, and I believe this additional facility would prove popular with other age groups too.

My idea has growing support from local residents and I have launched a petition in support of this, which I plan to submit to the council.

Residents can sign my petition by ringing me on Southend 347472 or online at www.rselabour.com.

Councillor Mike Royston Labour Councillor for St Luke's Ward

Pro-hunters are 'lowest of the low'

I WOULD like to put YA readers right on a few things stated in a recent letter from Tim Bonner, huntsman and spokesman for the Countryside Alliance, with regards to his dismissal of the Hunting Act (YA Letters, Nov 4) 4).

Firstly, he is incorrect in stating that the Hunting Act is not working. If it is not working, then why all the fuss to get it repealed?
Why? Because, in reality, the Why? Because, in reality, the Hunting Act is working very well, despite pro-hunters, (who feel themselves above the law), doing everything possible to make it 'unworkable'.

This is just another illustration of desperation, arrogance and outrage over a law that doesn't suit them.

This is what the hunting fraternity would like us to believe. They claim hunting support has increased since the ban. Then why change it? It is a sad fact, Mr Bonner,

It is a sad fact, Mr Bonner, that there will always be criminals prepared to break the law, whether it is hunting, child abuse, rape or murder. Tougher sentences in all crulougher sentences in all cruelty cases are needed, but this does not mean that the law is not working, it just means that it is made harder by those determined to break the law.

■ We welcome letters and e-mails on all subjects. Please keep them to fewer than 250 words and include your full name, address and daytime telephone number, wherever possible, for verification. Anonymous letters will not be accepted for publication. Contributions may be edited for reasons of space.

Write to: Letters To The Editor, Yellow Advertiser, Acorn House, Great Oaks, Basildon, Essex, SS14 1AH or e-mail us at: letters@yellowad.co.uk

But don't take my word for it, readers - log on to the Real Countryside Alliance and you will see the pro-hunters for what they truly are.

And we can safely discount any claims by the CA with regard to opinion polls in favour of hunting, as past history will prove that they have consistently falsified poll evidence resulting in being discredited and penalised by the Advertising Standards Authority.

Authority.

A 'legal' Ipsos-Mori poll confirms that support for the hunting ban has actually increased since last year. If David Cameron is so sure that the country wants hunting back, then what about a National Referendum? (not a biased 'free' vote for all his mates in parliament).

Furthermore, the ban on hunting was totally driven by concerns for animal welfare and wildlife and not class politics and prejudice as he claims, although, in my opinion people who enjoy killing defenceless wild animals for fun are in a 'class' of their own - the lowest of the low.

It was enlightening to read this week that an eminent UN Counsellor stated that 'The EU considers animal welfare to be of common concern and global importance and integral to our new constitution, the Lisbon Treaty'. No wonder David Cameron was against it!

Patricia Hall, Gidea Park

Amend the Hunting Act

THE Hunting Act should not be repealed as suggested by the Countryside Alliance, but it needs to be amended.

As it now stands, the Hunting Act allows hounds to flush out a fox that has gone to ground but not to kill it; but it can be hunted by a bird of prey, which is equally cruel.

There have been reports that cub hunting is still taking place. This cruel and depraved sport is a method used for training dogs to kill foxes.

One can only imagine the pain and terror this causes to a defenceless young animal, no more than four months old.

It is amazing a spokesman for the Countryside Alliance is still saying that a ban on hunting is driven by class prejudice and not for animal welfare.

It is the sheer horror of the cruelty to foxes that spurs people on to put a stop to a barbaric and wicked pursuit of a heautiful animal beautiful animal. Hares and deer would also be subjected to hideous tormat at the hands of men and women who enjoy watching hounds do their worst.

The Hunting Act must give a clear understanding that under no circumstances can hounds, or any other creature, be allowed to pursue any animals.

"My kitchen was over 10 years old and looked tatty. I desperately needed a new kitchen but couldn't afford the cost or upheaval. I had heard good reports of Dream Doors, who specialise in kitchen facelifts, so I decided to give them a try. What a result!

As well as fitting brand new doors and worktops, everything was colour co-ordinated and I even gained additional cupboard space. My kitchen has been transformed in just over a day and I have saved 60% of the cost of a new one!

I was under no obligation from the initial visit, and the advice and estimate I received were free of charge. There was no mess, no fuss, just plenty of friendly, helpful advice and I didn't need to pay the balance until I was completely satisfied!"

ASK THE AGENT ALAN KIRKMAN

Q. My widowed mother died recently, and as executor I am responsible for selling her property. Is there anything in particular I need to do?

A. If you intend to handle the whole process yourself, rather than employing a solicitor, the first thing you need to do is to apply for first thing you need to do is to apply for probate – the legal authority you must obtain from the court before you can begin administering your late mother's estate. As a key part of this process, the property needs to be professionally valued. This would be necessary even if you weren't intending to sell, since the entire estate has to be assessed for inheritance tax. What's more, if some tax is deemed to be due, then it must be paid in full before probate can be granted. This can sometimes make things a bit complicated if you don't have sufficient funds available to meet the tax liability, but if necessary your bank will normally advance the money, repayable via a charge on the property.

Most estate agents will happily provide a formal written valuation of the kind required for inheritance tax/probate purposes, in return for a small charge – typically around $\mathfrak{L}50-\mathfrak{L}150$. Some may waive this fee, on the understanding that in due course you will instruct them to sell the property. Others will prefer to charge upfront for the service, and then deduct that amount from their commission, if and when they eventually achieve a sale. In any case, as executor, you are entitled to be reimbursed out of the estate for any expenses of this kind that you incur during the course of your duties.

As for the actual contents of the property, these also need to be valued for inheritance tax purposes – although in the case of ordinary household goods and personal possessions, you can easily do this yourself by providing a lump sum figure.

Once you have applied for probate, you can go ahead and put the property on the market in the usual way – although contracts cannot be exchanged until probate is actually granted. You should therefore ensure that your buyer is fully aware of the situation.

ALAN KIRKMAN is chairman of Essex TEAMpart of the UK's largest branded network of independent estate agents, with 50 computerlinked offices across the county and 500 more nationwide. Managing Director of Tudor Estates in Southend, Alan has been an Estate Agent for over 25 years.

LANDLORDS - TENANTS PROTECT YOUR BELONGINGS

It is so easy when renting a property to try to cut down on as many expenses as you can. This in fact can lead to more problems. Insurances are a prime example of this and Homelet have a wide range of insurances that cover from the basic to the most comprehensive covers for both the tenants and landlords.

Landlords insurances can cover everything including buildings insurances (in case the unforeseen does happen), accidental damage (including malicious damage by tenants) landlords emergency assistance and rental guarantees, which will guarantee the rental payments for up to 12 months. Full legal cover for eviction costs can be included and it covers the entire property regardless of the number of tenants.

Tenants insurances not only cover their own personal possessions but also included the landlords fixtures and fittings. As most tenancy agreements state that it is the tenants responsibility to pay for any damage to their landlords property. The comprehensive cover that can be requested includes the landlords fixtures and fittings.

The majority of letting agents have information relating to both insurances and are happy to discuss covers that will suit both the pocket and the home. As always "Peace of Mind" is something you cannot put a price

liked The Movieum as it had lots of information about the movies that me and my brother like and some interactive stuff too. There was a car that you sat in with a screen in front of you showing you driving around London. You could also see the cars and buses and other vehicles that you see on the London road. There was a good Star Wars bit too where you could hold lightsabres and there was a person that told you what to do and how to do it.

Joseph Chambers, 11

I liked the Movieum because there was lots of stuff to do and lots of activities which were really good. One of them was a car and a TV and there was a gap so we could get in the car and then we did this little movie. We watched ourselves on the screen and we had to pretend to drive the car. There was lots of characters to see including Daleks, monsters and characters from Star Wars. I also enjoyed having mv photo taken with R2D2 and Joshua Chambers, 8 C3PO.

's cinema heaven

LIZ WADE and her two boys go mad for movies on their visit to The Movieum in London

TANDING next to the likes of C3PO and R2D2, and getting up close to a Dalek or two, were among the highlights during a visit to one of London's newest gems.

The Movieum, at London's former County Hall, opened 18 months ago and is dedicated to everything to do with films.

It looks at anything to do with films, from the people behind the cameras right through to the final blockbusters, and is full of photographs and props that tell the story along the way. The entrance had a wonderful red carpet feel to it and from the moment we arrived, the boys kept darting off when a prop caught their eye, such as the dinosaur from the Night at the Museum film and the original Rank Gong, which can be seen at the start of films made at Pinewood Studios.

We walked along the London on Film exhibition, which was packed with photographs and images all related to the capital's links with many blockbusters over the years.

We also learnt about some of the hundreds of international films that have been made in Britain, including the likes of Indiana Jones, Star Wars, Superman, Batman and Alien and marvelled at the many props and models, such as the original script from An American Werewolf in London and costumes from Batman including Jack Nicholson's Joker outfit.

There are rooms set out in different genres including heroes, sci-fi, fantasy and musicals, all of which are packed with costumes, props, models, production notes and on set stills

There is one room - the horror room - that you may want to avoid if the kids are a bit squeamish as it contains objects and costumes from horror films.

Many of the props are extremely lifelike including a sev ered head from Shaun of the Dead, which would have definitely had me calling the police if I had seen it anywhere else.

There are lots of things that the kids will recognise, including a great collection of props from early Harry Potter films, thanks to Warner Bros, which has provided the museum with a range of things including wands, broomsticks, costumes, and even spell books.

As well as the props, the museum allows visitors to find out more about the people who work behind the cameras, and the jobs that they do.

It looks at everyone from scenic artists to make-up artists and there are a range of handson things for the kids to do including controlling a prosthetic T-Rex head in the How Films Are Made zone.

The boys took their seats at a drum kit to have a go at making some sound effects, then climbed aboard a vintage car to star in their own little movie.

They got 10 out of 10 from me as they attempted to make their film as realistic as possible by bumping around on their seats, and throwing themselves from and throwing themselves from side to side as the car turned. One of the main highlights was to have their photograph taken with C3PO and R2D2 on a recreation of the Star Wars Tantive IV, from the opening sequence of the classic sage. of the classic saga.

The boys loved jumping around with the lightsabres and at a cost of £6 for one photo or £10 for two, I thought it was good value for money.

As well as everything above, there is so much more to see at The Movieum, and I would definitely say it was worth a visit.

It is a bit of cinema heaven for everyone, whether you catch the odd film here or there or are a complete film buff.

Breed 77's call to arms

ALL yourself a metal fan? Then you will have heard of Breed 77.

The Latino metallers are stalwarts of the music scene and this month, they'll be releasing their fifth album, Insects.

To promote the new CD - and new single, Wake Up - they're embarking on a tour of the UK and later this month, will be heading to Chinnerys, on Southend seafront.

"We have a bit of a history with Chinnerys," says lead

"We've been playing there for years and it's a great little venue. Essex is brilliant for live music."

Paul, who lives near Chingford, can't wait to release the band's 'killer' new album and says they're all 'raring to go' when it

"It's about time we started showing off our new songs," he reveals. "A new album is a big old deal.

"Our new single is really a call to arms for us. It's fast, aggressive and angry.

"We've had a great response to it on the internet so far and everyone seems to be getting involved. It's great."

Breed 77 formed more than a decade ago and Paul firmly believes the band's success is down to their fans.

"It's a testament to their loyalty that we're still around," he laughs. "After ten years, we're still spoilt for choice with dates.

It really is an exciting time."
Breed 77 will be at Chinnerys, Southend, on Friday, November 20. Tickets cost £9 - to book, call 01702 467305.

The restaurant was 'highly commended' in last year's prestigious Tiffin Cup, where MPs from across country nominate their favourite constituency curry house.

Now customers can also enjoy the delicious food, which prompted Southend West MP, David Amess, to nominate his favourite Indian restaurant for an award.

As well as the a la carte menu, the restaurant offers set meals from £13.80 per person, and a choice of special menus for two or four peo-

Mr Miah was delighted to win a Tiffin Cup accolade after compet-ing in the final at the House of Commons.

He said: "We ensure all the meals we serve to our customers are as good as the ones we produced in the competition."

birthdays to anniversaries. Staff are happy to provide set meals for large parties, whether you are planning an event with friends, family or work colleagues.

The finest Indian dining

■ IFFINS a La Carte Indian Restaurant first opened in December 1996 in a modest dwelling along Southend seafront, providing unique fine dining in simple but elegant surroundings. Today, Tiffins is located in much grander surroundings (it has moved to a listed building nearly three hundred years old) and is able to seat over 150 guests.

The décor is stunning from the black leather chairs, to the bold red walls and the crystal chandeliers.

There is also an atmospheric and stylish lounge bar where guests can relax and unwind with friends and family whilst enjoying a glass of wine or freshly ground coffee.

The cuisine is Authentic Indian as opposed to Bangladeshi, where the authenticity is provided by its specialist Indian chefs from Deli, Goa and the Puniab.

The chefs collectively bring a wealth of experience between them and have all come from excellent backgrounds.

Head chef, Mr Nitin Badoni, has been trained under the patronage of the Quillon Restaurant in Buckingham Palace Gate, London (sister restaurant to the famous Bombay Brasserie) that has provided takeaways to the Palace.

The menu is quite unique with many unusual dishes, ranging from the simple street foods found in India's many cities, to the coastal flavors of Goa where seafood is the norm. Why not try the 'Pani Puri' a typical Indian roadside snack or the more exotic 'Goan Mussels' gently stir fried in fresh herbs and spices. There is also a good selection of interesting vegetarian dishes as well as all of the tried and tested dishes we all known and love.

The real success of Tiffins is found in its honest approach to cooking where the ingredients are pure (with no colours or additives), the spices are freshly ground daily and only the very best quality meats and fish are used.

Add to this the fact that very little oil is used in the cooking process and Tiffins' food is a world away from other restaurant offerings.

All this and more makes the Tiffins experience like none other. Special occasion menus for parties, tailor-made menus to suit vour choice at a preferential rate, charity night events or outside catering -

Tiffins can provide it all.

Tiffins also offers lunchtime deals starting from £9.99 that includes a complimentary drink.

Tiffins is the place to be this Christmas, thanks to its December Party Nights.

The evenings, which cost £19.95 per person, include The Magic of Motown on December 10 and 17, 70s and 80s Remembered on December 4, 11 and 18, and Simply Soul on December 5, 12 and 19.
Feast in style on Christmas Day

reast in style on Christmas Day with a five-course menu for just £49.95 per person, or dine and dance the night away on New Year's Eve for £34.95 per person. For further details, call Tiffins Indian Restaurant and Lounge Bar, at 1 Eastern Esplanade, Southend, pp. 1170. £18678

Mitsubishi's work of art

By Steve Wright

HE MITSUBISHI Sportback Ralliart has been regarded as the Evo X little brother. All I know is that after test-driving it, it left a smile on my face visible from the moon.

Toomey Mitsubishi in Orsett was kind enough to let me loose on it over the weekend and after picking it up I was hooked.

The look of the car from the outside is less in your face than the Evo, but it's not discreet. The pointy-vented nose and massive grille gives it a sharklike quality. I found it certainly more attractive than the Subaru Impreza, which seems to have been designed by a blind person.

The Ralliart is particularly striking in blue with smoked alloys.

Inside the curvy design of the dash with carbon fibre effect is nice and the instrument panel feels suitably sporty.

The sound system sounds very good but I wouldn't recommend having it too loud as you cant hear that lovely sound coming from the engine when you put your foot down.

The Ralliart's engine feels like a like a good old-fashioned turbo. There's a sudden rush of torque when you put your foot down, and 0-62mph takes just 7.1 seconds

The SST gearbox with paddle-shift has two settings; the first is normal mode and the second is sport mode. Sport mode is a heart-thumping ride that I could-n't get enough of.I was trying to think of various places where I could take the car, away from traffic and from those dreaded speed cameras.

I found the overall handling superb, the brakes have been boosted, suspension tweaked and it's competitively priced from £21,649 - that's £7,000 cheaper than the cheapest Lancer Evo and about £1,300 cheaper than the five-door Golf GTI.

Considering the Mitsubishi Lancer Sportback Ralliart has four-wheel-drive, paddle-shift gearbox and loads of kit as standard it seems pretty good value

But the big question is, has Mitsubishi succeeded in providing an appetising cutprice alternative to one of the fastest, most accomplished four-door saloons ever made?

The easy answer is yes; I would highly recommend testdriving it. From start to finish I loved it.

To find out more or to book a test drive please contact Toomey Mitsubishi (Orsett Thurrock) on 01375 892300 or (Basildon) on 01268 407 550.

Weathering the storm

by Jonathan Crouch

OT SURPRISINGLY, gales, driving rain and flooding always prompt a wave of breakdowns - and a massive workload for the emergency services and motoring organisations. The AA, for example, tend to take more than 2,000 calls an hour during the morning rush in days where there are extreme weather conditions.

They're not alone either. Damp electrics and blown engines associated with driving through deep surface water tend to swamp the switchboards of all the UK's leading motoring organisations in the deepest winter months. After storms, the AA report that flooded engines or damp starts account for 90 per cent of the callouts they receive.

The organisation always urges motorists to take great care, and to consider delaying non-essential jour-neys in the worst-affected areas. It also urges drivers to follow some simple rules for driving in floods and Finally, if your car is flooded - or you can't start there's some simple advice. Tim Shallcross, AA Frontline Training Manager, said: "People mustn't just assume their car will start regardless of the weather.

"If you are having problems getting going, use a little kitchen roll to wipe dry the battery leads, the dis-tributor cap and the ignition

"Then spray the area with a water dispersant, which hopefully will do the trick.

Shrimpers dumped out of FA Cup by Gillingham

Southend United

FINANCIAL matters at Southend United may have calmed, but any hopes of a lucrative FA Cup run ended at Gillingham on Saturday.

Down to the bare bones of the squad, the Shrimpers conceded twice in three first half minutes before former midfielder Mark Bentley sealed the win.

Boosted by their win over the Gills in the league a week earlier, Southend started well. Jean-Francois Christophe, Simon Francis, James Walker and Dougie Freedman all had early chances.

Against the run of play, the home side were awarded a penalty on 16 minutes when Febian Brandy went down under challenge from Francis. Simeon Jackson stepped up to take, but Steve Mildenhall produced an excellent save.

Gillingham, though, were spurred on and it was not long until they opened the scoring. Brandy was again involved, combining with Curtis Weston, who lifted the ball beyond Mildenhall on 25 minutes.

Three minutes later and Brandy was on the scoresheet himself. Picking up the ball on the left, the young forward on loan from Manchester United drilled a low shot past the Southend keeper.

The Shrimpers were shellshocked and were lucky the lively Brandy did not add to his tally.

Damian Scannell, who came on for the injured Johnny Herd in the first half, looked to create something for the Blues, but the visitors struggled to get back into the game.

Former United player Mark Bentley then wrapped up the win for the home side with a headed goal just after the hour mark.

• Southend are in action on Saturday when they go to Yeovil in Coca Cola League One.

RFJ experiences the highs and lows of motor racing

Motorsport

THORPE BAY motor racer Robert Foster-Jones suffered the highs and lows of motorsport at Rockingham on Saturday.

The 19-year-old took part in his second ever car race meeting in the Formula Renault Winter Series - one of the most recognised formulas to help drivers on their way to Formula 1.

He races for top junior single seater team Manor Competition, which guided a certain Lewis Hamilton to the British Formula Renault championship in 2003, before encountering a full season with them next season.

For the qualifying season on Saturday, RFJ did well on a drying track to claim eighth place on the grid ahead of his experienced team-mates.

The 2009 B4/Renault MSA British Karting Champion, then went on to claim a fine eighth place finish in the first race as he gets acclimatised with the car.

However the second race brought mixed fortunes for the young driver, who suffered a huge crash into the barriers on lap five causing the race to be stopped.

Luckily he managed to walk away with only his pride dented.

Manor Competition co-owner, Sarah Shaw, said: "It's been a steep learning curve for Robert but he's done a good job this weekend and we were all very relieved to see him walk away from his race two accident without injury.

"It was a big impact but the chassis did its job in keeping him protected."

Fourth round draw made

Essex Senior Cup

RYMAN League Division One North's Redbridge have been handed a plum tie after being drawn to host League One's Colchester United in the fourth round of the Essex Senior Cup.

The Motormen were rewarded with the draw after their 4-3 win at Southend Manor and will face the league side in the last 16.

Last year's winners Chelmsford City, who saw off Heybridge Swifts in the previous round in a seven-goal thriller, will host Blue Square Premier's Grays Athletic, managed by Julian Dicks.

Essex Senior League's Hullbridge Sports were also given an interesting tie when Blue Square South's Braintree Town will be the visitors.

League Two Dagenham & Red-bridge will travel to the winners of either Halstead and Harlow Town, while Essex Senior League's Bowers & Pitsea, who saw off League One's Southend United, will travel to Waltham Abbey from Ryman League Premier.

Fourth round matches are due to take place before the December 5 deadline, with third round replays due to take place last night (Tuesday).

DRAW: Aveley v Burnham Ramblers/Billericay Town; Concord Rangers v Maldon Town; East Thurrock United/Thurrock v Waltham Forest/AFC Hornchurch; Chelmsford City v Grays Athletic: Hullbridge Sports

Barking's perfect 10 to go nine points clear

BARKING made it a perfect 10 in the National League Two South on Saturday.

The side from the Goresbrook won their tenth consecutive match after seeing off Westcombe Park 32-0, leaving them with a nine point lead at the top.

Tries from Sean Flannery, James Ngan, Daniel Lloyd-Jones and Jack Gash, plus penalties and conversions from Harry Owens secured the win.

After their defeat to Barking last week, Southend got back that winning feeling with a 29-44 at Canterbury after being 24-17 down at half-time.

Luke Sloan, Mark Billings, Daniel Boughtwood, Simon Hoult and Jake Fisk went over the line for Southend, while Andrew Frost collected a bundle of points with the boot. Southend move into fifth place.

In London One North, previous leaders Westcliff won 5-23 at Ruislip to remain level on points with leaders Civil Service, but are second due to an inferior points difference.

Chingford in third, also level on points with the top two after seeing off lowly Brentwood by 18-6

Seventh place Woodford had no answer against leaders Civil Service, losing 58-7, while third from bottom Eton Manor lost out 10-5 at Letchworth Garden City.

Second from bottom Rochford Hundred suffered a horror show at fourth place Staines, who thrashed them 92-0.

Thurrock continue their domination in London 2 North East, notching up their seventh win out of seven with a 5-18 win at nearest rivals Braintree to open up the gap to four points.

Romford & Gidea Park remain third after win-
